Consumer Trends: Connected IoT Market Growth

Download Infographic The global IoT connected consumer market is poised to reach $1.7 trillion by 2022. It's a mark of reliable, secure and trusted IoT infrastructure as sensors, actuators and devices connect to the cloud, data is analyzed, transactions are processed and products are monitored. It's obvious that a world with smart factories, smart homes, self-driving cars, smart traffic systems, power grids and self-healing health care systems will pave the way for more secure, transparent and high-quality products and services. Extend the human reach in to the physical world To date, the Internet of Things has focused on enhancing our connection to data. Now, a service-centric IoT model that provides analytics and control has emerged and shows a dramatically different trajectory. As we move beyond the factory floor and into the home, we will see an increase in smart, interconnected devices as a means to deliver better services for consumers. The proliferation of devices and sensors enables smart systems and services that monitor homes, businesses and cities.

What's New In Pasteasy?

Copy anything to your clipboard with an easy to use iOS or Android app. Send text, links, images, audio, or a file from your iOS or Android to your desktop or Mac using Pasteasy. Now easily share content to all your iOS or Android devices from your desktop, Mac or Windows 8. View, edit, and copy items in the list and move items with the arrows on the left. is good, but i have some questions:

- In the desktop version, when you tap on the text area, it has a menu of pasted items, with only links and text items. In the Android version, you can see the menu, but the list will not update automatically. So i have to tap on it again to update. Why is that? -In both the Android and desktop version, when you tap on the text area, only links and text items will be listed. How do you paste a file into the clipboard? You can only paste to the clipboard from the app, I don't see the usual paste menu that normally pops up when you press ctrl+v in the desktop version. It says you can use the above items, but it doesn't work for me. And also, in the desktop version, I can't copy a whole folder to the clipboard, it just copies the file inside the folder, and only the last one in the folder is copied. How do you copy all files inside the folder? Is it compatible with every Android and iOS? Thanks!
